CHIC Monthly Learning Community Call

11/1/2019
Challenges

• It took almost 2 years to officially go live with the new SBIRT screening process
• There is no official blueprint of how to implement a new process in a healthcare organization that serves almost 55,000 unique patients in a community health setting
• Buy-in was tough all across the organization
• Working with Technology

• Integrating software with an EMR
• Getting the right people to sit down at the table in the organization
• Implementing a process change at 11 very different clinics in a community health setting
• Having to take a step back was a difficult decision to make, but the right decision
Lessons Learned

• The first 12 months laid the foundation of where we are today
• Collaboration w/ key internal/external partners should of happened sooner
• Sometimes taking a step back will allow for a step forward
• Trust the process
• There is no such thing as too much testing
THANK YOU FROM
