Note to service provider:

PACES (Positive and Adverse Childhood Experiences Survey) is a brief questionnaire designed as an alternative to the ACE Survey. It includes questions about protective factors. These protective factor questions are interspersed with the items from the ACE Survey in a way that can help to decrease the potential for re-traumatization, maintain a balance between activating and calming questions, and help provide a richer understanding of the client’s family experiences.

PACES was developed as an example of how questionnaire construction can be done in a way that gathers information needed for delivery of trauma intervention/prevention services and also highlights client resilience. Since PACES is not a standardized questionnaire, questions can be changed to better fit the agency needs. It is the interspersing of protective questions that highlight client resilience that the questionnaire demonstrates.

To the Individuals in Our Practice Seeking ____________Care:

The families that each of us grows up in as well as our early childhood experiences can have an effect on our parenting/behaviors/health/well being. Most of us have some memories of our early life that are positive...people who cared about us, positive experiences that made us confident, etc. But there are also childhood experiences that are harmful to children and can continue to affect us even as adults.

Here at ____________ it helps us understand how to better support you during our work with you to know some of the positive experiences and also the hard things you experienced during childhood. For example, parents who didn't have enough to eat as children tell us that it is hard to know how much their child should eat at any given age.

We also know that events that happen when you get older can also have an effect on how easy it is to bounce back after distressing experiences.

On the form below are some questions about your own early experiences. The questions mostly focus on your family experiences. Your answers to these questions can help us know how to support you and they can also help us better understand others and the services that would be helpful for our clinic to offer.

Thank you for sharing this information. It will be kept confidential and will be used to help us help you as well as to develop services that can benefit many other individuals as well. It is completely ok to skip items or to decide not to fill out this questionnaire. It will not affect your ability to receive services from our agency.
